

15 reasons why you should join The Ontario Occupational Health Nurses Association

People want to get the most for their money. In business, saving money is often achieved when you join with others in your profession. By forming an “association” the individuals comprising that association have stronger buying power, lobbying power, networking power, and can realize more – a lot more - for their money.

Here’s a checklist of OOHNA Member benefits:

- Professional Liability Insurance
- Pro Bono* Legal Assistance at no extra charge
- Substantial discounts to all workshops and conferences
- Salary Survey
- Mail-out and email service of employment opportunities
- Current resource information
- Lobbying
- Internationally recognized, peer-reviewed Journal
- Informative members-only Xpress newsletter
- Continuing Education credits through education events and the Journal
- Networking at conferences, workshops and on-line
- Information rich Website with password protected employment listings and Area Association news

- Peer recognition through Awards
- CNA rates for writing COHN(C) certification ( Contact OOHNA for details.)
- Continuing education funding through the Pat Ewen Bursary and much more ...

By joining OOHNA, you have the strength and power of the majority of OHNs practicing in Ontario.

OOHNA – The voice of Occupational Health Nurses in Ontario.

To find out more about OOHNA, please browse through our website at www.oohna.on.ca or call 416-239-6462 or email: administration@oohna.on.ca to receive membership information.

NB: If you are a registered nurse licensed by the College of Nurses of Ontario you can join OOHNA. You DO NOT need to be certified as an Occupational Health Nurse by the Canadian Nurses Association [COHN(C) designation] to become a member of OOHNA.
